Still hope for an Underground Railway Restaurant?

Fifteen months ago the Town Crier published a picture of the old Dr. Rounds-Maria Hathaway - Dr. Brown house, at the corner of Salem Street and Woburn Street in North Wilmington, and expressed the hope, a bit facetiously perhaps, that it might become an "underground railway" restaurant.

The house was empty, and faced the possibility of being demolished. The "underground railway" reference was to the fact that in the pre-Civil War days the family of Dr. Brown used to hide run-away slaves in the building, - black people in their way to Canada and freedom.

The building is really historic. It reportedly dates back about 200 years, and was the home of Col. Joshua Harnden, after the Revolution. He operated a tavern there. After the death of his widow it was purchased by Dr. Silas Brown, the first of five physicians in his family to live in that home. One of his descendants was a surgeon in the Union Army who took part in the siege of Petersburg, and was later superintendent of what is now the Tewksbury Hospital - the first superintendent. Another was the late Captain George Hathaway (MC) USN, remembered by many people living in Wilmington today.

The building still faces the possibility of being demolished, and the Town Crier still hopes that this will not be its fate. The present owner, a construction firm, has proposed a motel - restaurant complex, and there are articles in the Warrant for Saturday's Town Meeting proposing that the land be rezoned for this purpose. There is considerable opposition to this proposal.

Tuesday evening Attorney Joseph Courtney informed the Wilmington Planning Board that he was withdrawing all the rezoning articles except the one that would allow the old home to become a restaurant. The firm that has employed him has no prospective customer for a motel, at this time, Courtney told the Board.

Wilmington's youngest elected official

Harry J. Landers, 20, of Clark Street, has displaced Selectman Mike Cairn as Wilmington's youngest elected official. A life long resident of Wilmington, he is the third person to be elected to the School Committee, at a young age, in this century. He is employed with his father at the Walter H. Wilcox Insurance Agency, in Woburn.

In 1932 Wilmington elected Edward C. Manning, then 22 and a WPA employee to the School Committee. Mr. Manning, a Magna Cum Laude graduate of Harvard, is now retired and lives in Kezar Falls, Maine.

In 1940 Wilmington elected Joseph Ring, a recent high school graduate to the School Board. He was then 21. Mr. Ring shortly afterwards enlisted in the U. S. Navy, and he died in the South Pacific, in the service of his country.

Tewksbury election shows anti-builder Sentiments

Tewksbury voters Saturday seemed to indicate strong anti-builder sentiments in casting their ballots. Frederick H. Baldwin Jr., a builder, was defeated in his bid for re-election as a selectman, and critics of building policies in the town were elected to seats on several boards.

Neil Niven Jr. led all candidates for two, three-year terms open on the board of selectmen. Niven, a constant critic of builders' performance when he served as a road commissioner, drew 384 more votes than runner-up Joseph J. Whelan, an incumbent who was re-elected.

Niven told a crowd at VFW Hall after the last voting results were announced, "The town is yours again."

Richard Adams Sr., who ran a pooled campaign organization with Niven, won in his bid to fill the two years remaining in Selectman Charles H. Goldstein's term. Goldstein resigned December 31 to concentrate more on his business.

Says change needed

Adams, who joined Niven in celebrating after their victory was clear, told supporters, "It is your victory." He commented later, "I'm a selectman because of these people. They believed a change was needed."

Selectman Frank A. Antonelli supported Niven and Adams in the campaign, as did Goldstein. Although it is unclear if the two new selectmen will form a solid majority with Antonelli, the board appeared to be in for changes. In recent years Baldwin, Whelan and Selectman Donald E. Sheehan often voted together, and Antonelli and Goldstein were in the minority.

Antonelli was at VFW Hall to congratulate Niven and Adams. "The people have shown they want things changed," he said.

Professor wins post

Joseph W. Lipchitz was elected to one of two, three year terms open on the school committee in his first bid for town office. Lipchitz is a professor at Lowell Technological Institute, and had almost 1000 votes more than incumbent H. Bailey Trull.

Trull, won another three-year term on the committee. He led Robert H. Mullen by only 30 votes, however, and Mullen is reportedly considering asking for a recount.

David E. Cook, a 21-year-old student at Lowell State College, earned a five-year term on the planning board. He defeated Frank C. Criscitello by almost a 2-1 margin. Criscitello has reportedly been involved in the building industry.

Ecologist elected

James W. Lennox, a popular leader of ecologists and conservationists in the town, was elected to the health board for three years. Lennox was critical of past boards' inspections of new septic systems, and called for stricter enforcement of present health regulations. He said after his victory, "Good builders have nothing to worry about."

Raymond J. Maillet beat Walter F. Sharkey Jr. by almost a 3-2 margin in his bid for a three-year term on the road commission. Maillet said Sharkey was a builder, and promised to insure subdivision rules and regulations were enforced.

Wilson E. Brazile edged out a popular assistant principal at the town's high school and other candidates in a bid for a three-year term on the school committee for Shawsheen Valley Regional Technical Vocational High School. Brazile is one of the few negroes in the town, and beat his nearest rival by almost 500 votes.

Gains most votes
Mary F. Delaney won re-election to five years on the housing authority. She defeated Lawrence P. Camerlingo 3049-1858.

NO PROBLEM WITH QUORUM: The quorum this year for town meetings in Tewksbury is 468, but more than 700 turned up when this photo was taken in the high school gym Monday night. The count Tuesday night was 627.

$12 tax hike Foreseen

Tewksbury town meeting votes $1.7 million school additions

Tewksbury's town meeting voted $1.7 million in school additions just before it adjourned Tuesday night. Action on only 10 of the 120 articles on the warrant was completed by then. The meeting was expected to continue Wednesday and several nights more.

Finance committee chairman Norman O. Boudreau told the meeting that even if Fincom recommendations were passed, the 1973 tax rate would jump $12 based on 1972 assessments. The town's 1972 tax rate was $176.

His committee recommended passage of $15,351,266 in budgets and expenditures provided by articles. This broke down to $9,066, 581 for the school department, $5,769,685 for other governmental departments and $515,000 in expenditures provided by other articles.

Already approved by adjournment Tuesday was a five-patrolman increase in the police department, the town's first health agent, a new park attendant and more than $3.5 million in budgets for most other governmental departments.

Voters disapproved major pay increases for the police and fire chiefs and tree warden and an increase to 70 per cent in the town's share of health insurance for town employees.

School Supt. John N. Wynn said the school additions would cost the town $7,897 in taxes, $100,000 from the stabilization fund and $1.6 million provided through a bond issue.

He said elementary and kindergarten classes would be added to the Shawsheen, North Street and Heath Brook schools with the funds. The additions would be ready for use in the fall of 1974, according to H. Bailey Trull, the newly chosen chairman of the school committee.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Heider asked why additions could be built to those schools now. They claimed Wynn once reported soil conditions at those three schools would not allow additions. Wynn denied

Who is to be 1973 good Guy?

Municipalities and organizations throughout the state annually honor some outstanding person who is usually a well-known personality in politics, or business, etc. Wilmington is unique in that it has an award for people. Just ordinary people.

It started five years ago when a group of businessmen, attending "another testimonial" for "another politician" came to the conclusion that there must be many people in town who give tirelessly of themselves, and seek no recognition. They decided to do something about it.

A committee was formed, each person presenting several names for a "good guy award". The person to be selected must have nothing to do with politics, and only the members of the committee were to know who was getting the award. Sellers of tickets were not to divulge the name.

Good Guy No. 1 was Rocco DePasquale, owner of the restaurant bearing his father's name. Rocco has never refused a request for help. Little League, Boy Scouts, any such organization. He gives of his time as well as his food, to make people happy. He is known by all sects and creeds as one person who will never let you down. A good buy - a great guy!

Number Two was Ralph Ambrose, Ralph is well known to the youth of Wilmington and their parents, for his quiet approach in counseling questions, in the school department. No boy of girl is bad,

Special Report

Is a developer threatening to fill a swamp next door to you?

If his agency-cutting reorganization plans succeed, promises state Environmental Affairs Secretary Charles H. W. Foster, he'll have an inspector on your spot within days—not weeks.

Dr. Foster says his proposals to pull together 49 separate agencies and to stress regional offices rather than Boston control would save $4 million the first year and could eventually cut his department's $69 million budget some 10 per cent.

"We want to be able to deal with the environment as a whole" he says.

"Right now we're dealing with it in bits and pieces. We've held hearings throughout the state, and people have shown frustration at our inability to respond adequately. Some Conservation Commissions don't even know what the laws are now that might be changed!"

His solution? "Someone within reach" to answer such perennial local questions as a swamp's right to stay swampy, the best sewerage treatment course and the proper way to keep down mosquitoes.

Dr. Foster's "radical surgery," which he hopes the Legislature will consider sometime in the spring, would loop off 26 "special interest" boards and substitute an environmental quality office to issue just one blanket permit.

He would set up five regional districts throughout the state, leaving a four-pronged state structure to handle environmental quality, management (pests, forests and parks), enforcement and planning and administration.

by Bill Kirtz

With an inquiry resolving local problems on the spot without endless rounds of calls and visits to Boston and weeks and sometimes months of delay, Dr. Foster envisions a day when local Conservation Commissions will get more agency help in planning for the future.

"Many commissions don't know what they're supposed to do," he concedes, "but under the reorganization plan someone would be within reach."

Dr. Foster hopes to have nearly 400 uniformed enforcement officials — instead of his current 70 — to police environmental standards. And with two full-time people in each regional district touching base with local conservation groups, he hopes for closer communication about what should and shouldn't be done to preserve local open space.

"It's outrageous," he says, "but under the present system there's been competition between two state agencies for the same piece of land. Probably one didn't know the other was bidding for it!"

Any plan — however good — must get the Legislature's approval, and Dr. Foster's program is part of Governor Sargent's total reorganization proposals.

The environmental improvements will be submitted after being "dovetailed" with other state agency plans and Dr. Foster knows that a Democratic Legislature isn't especially anxious to make a Republican Governor look good.

"My plan will be ready in the middle of the month," he says. "I'm prepared to be grilled about our claims — and we can back them up with figures."

SAUNDERS STAR IN CHURCH SHOW

Dan and Marge Saunders, who have six children and have been residents of Tewksbury for the past 12 years, will appear in the Couples Club play, "Rowan and Martin's Laugh-In", Friday and Saturday nights March 16 and 17 at the Tewksbury United Methodist Church Fellowship Hall.

Mrs. Saunders has participated in five plays presented by the Church's Couples Club, and Dan has participated on four. "Rowan and Martin's Laugh-In" will be the 10th annual play presented by the club under the direction of Liborio A. Salamone.

In act one, Don and Marge will entertain as various zany characters in different situations. In act two, they will bring back the good old fashioned school days with its teacher, pupils and games at recess with a sing-a-long. In act three, they will play the suffering Mom and Dad who have the mortgage over their heads and they can only sacrifice their only daughter "Little Nell".

DRIVERS BEWARE: Anyone driving his car on the right of way on Arkansas Road in Tewksbury would have to smash through this home. Area residents have asked town officials to solve problems caused because the town decades ago accepted the road in front of the mailbox at this home, though the actual right of way was in parts 40 feet from the road.

The Town Meeting

Wilmington's Annual Town Meeting starts Saturday, at 1:30 pm. Hopefully, all the business will be concluded in one day. To be more practical, probably two, or even more days will be involved.

Articles 1-4

Basically procedural matters, involving no controversy. A figure will be given in the meeting, relative to Article 3, which is the money owed by the town for the past year, and as yet unpaid.

Article 5

This article may well take the entire afternoon, and even longer, into the evening. It constitutes the Town's Budget, for the next eighteen months, as is explained by the Finance Committee. Most of the Town's Tax Rate is determined by the judgement of the voters on this article.

The Finance Committee report, mailed to the voters this week, pinpointed the proposed appropriation for the School Committee for special attention. According to the Finance Committee, on an 18 month basis, the town can expect a tax rate of $80.60 per thousand of assessed valuation, if their recommendations are followed. However, the Fincom has also warned that an additional increase of $5.16 in the tax rate will occur if the School Committee budget is not cut by a recommended total of $690,000.

There are two sentences which the Fincom uses which represent the red flag, at the bottom of their message. Look for the message. It starts "It should be noted". The School Committee's answer is an offer to cut the budget by the sum of $138,290. This is $3.50 more than the Fincom likes, for the tax rate. Maybe the fur will fly.

Incidentally, the bottom lines of the Fincom message tells the voters that the tax rate will increase $1 for every $133,500 voted by the town, out of taxation.

Nowhere in the message is there anything about the impact of a new High School, for which there will probably be a Special Town Meeting later this year.

The Finance Committee is obviously worried, because the increases of the School Department for any year become the base for next years increase. What will a new high school, if voted ($10,000,000 to $17,000,000) do to the tax rate next year?

Article 6

This is the Capital Outlay Article - the purchase of new equipment for the various Town Departments.

a. Is voting machines. The town has used them twice now, on a trial basis. Election results become known very quickly, and a favorable vote would greatly simplify some problems of town elections.

c. The Fire Department wants a 1,000 G.P.M. Pumper. The Fincom has a startling way of handling this - recommending a bond issue instead of out of taxes, for this $40,000 purchase. It sounds like some of the financial juggling generally associated with cities. Perhaps the Fincom is taking an indirect way to shoot down the purchase of the pumper, because a bond issue will require a two-thirds vote.

Article 8

The annual brouhaha. $750 each for two Veterans' Club Houses. Fincom has disapproved, and there will be some voters who will too. This is a war over peanuts - less than 1 1/2 cents on the tax rate. This column has no war to fight with the idea of Veterans Club Houses.

Article 9

This probably will be a real brawl. It is understood that the Conservation Commission is considering amendments. The principal issue is that this article would tend to limit the issuance of building permits to four months of the year. The intention is good. The details, to put it mildly, are controversial.

Article 10

Article 10 is Flood Plain Zoning, and the Conservation Commission has a film of the Connecticut River, and some other places, that is of interest to sportsmen and nature lovers, which they may want to show.

It is a complicated issue. The Conservation Commission has discovered what the British knew many years ago, that to conquer one must first divide. This is a larger order than was proposed last year.

It is the understanding of this column that only the actual streams were to be asked, in this year's article. There is more than that - there is a lot of land privately owned. Has the Conservation Commission talked with the owners of that land?

Article 11

This article seeks to transfer to the control of the Conservation Commission the care and custody of a number of pieces of land, too many to be easily counted, acquired by the town, mostly by tax foreclosure.

Again, the intention is good. The transfer of these parcels to the Conservation Commission permanently removes them from any other use by the town. Is that good?

Article 12

This is the land upon which the D.A.V. Clubhouse used to stand, on Grove Avenue. The price is $25,000.

Article 13

This is to acquire a lot of land adjoining Silver Lake, between Grove Avenue and Lake Street, where many years ago there was a walk for people heading for the old railroad depot at Silver Lake.

There was, a few years ago, a source of pollution in this area. It has been cleared up, but the town should seriously consider purchasing it.

Article 14

Rotary Park. $36,000, or thereabouts, has been spent in filling the old cranberry bog of Mrs. Dr. Hiller, and now the Rotary Park Inc. wants to give the land to the town. Any arguments?

Article 15

Mutual Police Assistance programs. Is this the one that Rep. Fred Cain put through the legislature? Who knows - we might need it.

Article 16

This article would reward police officers who obtain advanced education and training. The Fincom is afraid. The Town Crier isn't.

Article 17

Water main on Lake Street, under betterments. The cost will be paid by the abutting property owners.

Article 18

The Redevelopment Authority article. The WRA is now acquiring the forty acres of land alongside the old railroad, off Eames St. and seeks to rezone part of it to industrial use. This will wrap up a good project, of many years duration.

Article 19

Police Cadets - training. The Fincom disapproves. What does the voter think?

Article 20

A House Keeping amendment to the Zoning By-Law - a rare occasion indeed, in that no controversy is to be expected.

Articles 21 and 22

Official Map of Wilmington. A complicated and controversial subject. Likely to be inflamed by the fact that few will really comprehend the scope and effects of this, if voted.

It will wipe off the map many miles of "paper streets" (and private streets) in Wilmington. The result will be that literally hundreds of building lots owned by as many people will be barred from receiving building permits. However, very few people affected by this article actually have any knowledge of it. They may be in for a shock.

Article 23

The Planning Board, as sponsor of this article, is preparing to offer an amendment. In its original form, it might well make the Board of Appeals a full-time Board, for up to half the homes in Wilmington would become "non-conforming uses", that is, to add a porch or a room, the home-owner would have to get the approval of the Board of Appeals.

The amendment would impose new lot dimensions on business and industrial lots. This might sound like a good idea, except for the fact that these new requirements will seriously hamper existing business and industry seeking to improve their present locations. This could send up the tax rate in future years. This might well turn out to be one of the most explosive debates at the Town Meeting.

Article 24

Motorboats. Last year the By-Law Committee recommended an article to control motorboats on Silver Lake. It was amended with provisions that violated state law, resulting in a disapproval by the Attorney General, and leaving the town with no control at all.

This article, as written, will give the town the maximum control of motorboats, as allowed by law. If you want it, do not allow anyone to amend it.

Article 25

The Moratorium Article. Sponsored by the Planning Board. They now propose to withdraw completely. Passage of this article would hurt too many people.

Article 26

The Chief of Police would like to control the Police Department, instead of letting the Union do it.

Article 27

Too bad. The Town Crier would just love to have a headline "Ainsworth Road goes Kosher", because many years ago it was the first to discover the many errors the town committed, back about 1961. Not likely to be acted upon until the next annual Town Meeting, because there are many details that have to be settled. As one lawyer says "it's a can of worms".

Article 28

Self explanatory.

Article 29

To build a fence near Martins Brook, where a tragedy occurred last winter. Only a short section of fence is asked for.

If anything is voted, on this article, the voters should make certain that the word Apollo is not used.

Apollo Park, in Wilmington, is the name of an old sub-division between Burlington Avenue and Taft Road, and it probably includes the old quarry, around which neighbors hope a fence will be built.

The use of the term Apollo Park, for the land adjoining Martins Brook is strictly as the result of a joke among some Conservation minded types, in Wilmington. When it was first proposed that the town acquire the land these people went up and inspected the area. They were struck by the number of boulders and rocks, left after gravel operations, and called the place Moonville. Then, at the time of the first lunar landing (Apollo) they changed their joke name to Apollo Park, and the name has stuck.

Article 30

Self explanatory, if you can understand it.

Article 31

To sell tax land to a private party. An abuttor, last year, refused to buy it at terms set by the Selectmen. It is at the end of Congress Street.

Article 32

Fincom disapproves. Town Crier approves. This will increase industrial land, by an owner who is now expanding, to conform with his property line instead of an arbitrary line that cuts across his property. An extra 5.9 acres is involved, to be added to a 50 acre industrial park. At least it's good for the taxpayers.

Articles 33-35

Rezoning of land in North Wilmington, north of Salem Street for a motel and restaurant.

The Town Crier, over a year ago, proposed that a country style restaurant could be made of the old Harnden Tavern. The sponsor, so the word is, is going to withdraw the articles.

Article 36

Concord Street. There is a neighborhood business zone, a 2 1/2 acre strip of land which was zoned neighborhood business in 1955, in the hope that the B&M RR would still run passenger trains to North Wilmington. The hope fizzled. The zoning remains.

This is part of an industrial park, and this article proposes to rezone the 2 1/2 acres to industrial. This will make available nearly six acres of land, for industrial use.

The Planning Board, the Fincom and the Conservation Commission have all approved, an occasion for applause.

Article 37

To purchase 5 1/2 acres of land, along Lubbers Brook at Concord Street. Proposed by the Conservation Commission. This is the proper way to do things.

Article 38

The Town Meeting will probably call this the Bob Wagstaff article, and in case the reader doesn't know him, he is the meat manager at Lucci's. The land is owned by his mother-in-law.

This has been residential. No one in their right mind would build a house on it. It is ideally suited for business purposes, at the intersection of Route 129 and Interstate 93. Fincom approved. Town Crier too.

Article 39

Rezoning for a gas station at the corner of West Street and Lowell Street. It will allow the Shell Oil Company to relocate the gas station now at the intersection of Routes 129 and 38, which is to be eliminated according to the latest plans for the DPW for the Route 129 Bypass.

Article 40

Apartment Housing. It isn't often that the Town Crier will praise an individual, in talking of zoning, but Stanley Webber has taken the proposal of the Planning Board of last year, and vastly improved it.

Last year the Planning Board gave the town a PUD zoning, with provisions for all sorts of things, from physicians to shoe cobblers. This was the Planning Board proposal for apartment zoning. The town turned it down.

Mr. Webber has knocked out much of the nonsense. He proposes apartment house zoning, for apartment houses, and let the duplexes and town houses be presented on their own merits.

The need for a limited amount of apartment housing in Wilmington is self evident. The young people and retirees also have a right to live in Wilmington.

Mr. Webber's proposal is the one kind of housing that helps the taxpayer. No addition to school enrollment, with no apartments of over two bedrooms.

Articles 41 and 42

Land for Apartment Zoning. If Article 39 should be passed, then these two locations on Woburn Street are being proposed for Apartment Housing. Public sewerage is available.

Article 43

The Fincom says it will be passed over. It involves a lot of land off Woburn Street, across from Eames Street. The parcel of land is partly industrial, and partly residential. It cannot be used for either purpose, which seems hardly fair.

The Final Word

The Town Meeting is on a Saturday. If it must adjourn for another day, as seems probable, the adjournment should be to the next Saturday. More people can attend, and there are less chances for fancy political footwork.

New staff member for Wilmington Counseling Service

Dr. Mary LaBella

The Wilmington Family Counseling Service has added a new staff member to help meet the increasing demand for service. Dr. Mary LaBella earned her Ph. D. from the University of Florida. In addition to her work with the service, she is the Chief Psychologist at the Lakeside School in Peabody, which is a private school for emotionally disturbed children, and an Associate Professor at Salem State College. Previously, Dr. LaBella was Chief Psychologist at the Northshore Guidance Center in Salem and a psychologist at Judge Baker Guidance Center and Children's Hospital in Boston.

With the addition of Dr. LaBella, the service now has three Ph. D. psychologists, a distinction matched by few mental health facilities outside of Boston.

Dr. Carol Golub, the Psychologist-Director, and Dr. Herbert Golub, Chief Psychologist, will continue to provide the leadership and service they began four years ago. Mrs. Cleo Plossios, who joined the staff in September, will continue as Psychologist.

Anyone seeking help for family or emotional problems can call 658-9889 from 9 am to 8 pm every day.

New Books at Wilmington Library

Bessie, by Chris Albertson. Bessie, "the empress of the blues", never played the part of a superstar - she simply was one. A woman of extraordinary courage and self-determination, Bessie was black and proud long before it was the order of the day.

A Life of One's Own; Three Gifted Women and the Men They Married, by Joan Dash. What price was extracted of women whose achievements matched their extraordinary gifts, who became famous for these achievements, when they married?

The Taming of the American Irish by Andrew M. Greeley. Greeley, a Catholic priest who practices sociology, is a man whose opinions run against the contemporary grain. Essentially, Greeley argues, the Irish in America have achieved much for themselves as individuals - at the expense of becoming less Irish.

The Champagne Spy by Wolfgang Lotz. As a top Israeli agent operating in Egypt, Wolfgang Lotz lived the charmed and extravagant life of a James Bond. Adopting the cover of a wealthy German horse-breeder, he mixed in the highest and most glittering circles of Egyptian society.

Why Johnny Can't Add by Prof. Morris Kline. According to Professor Kline, the new math is a failure. He claims that for more than a decade its proponents have had their way in America's school, and the result has been a generation of math illiterates with an unprecedented fear and hatred for the entire field of mathematics.

The Retreat from Riches; Affluence and Its Enemies, by Peter Passell and Leonard Ross. Takes issue with the anti-economic growth consensus. Two leading economists argue that growth can be good for all of us and is absolutely essential for the poor.

Tewksbury Teenbits

by Kathy Heider
Congratulations to Steve Gessner who won the title of State Wrestling Champion. This is a first for Tewksbury Memorial High School.

On Wednesday, February 28, history teacher Mrs. Roche took her ninth period class to the Salem Witch Museum, Salem, Mass.

It was a clear, cold day and we enjoyed the ride. We were supposed to arrive in time for the 2:30 showing, but due to a few wrong turns, we saw more of Salem than anticipated. We turned down one street that was so narrow, as many were, that we thought it was just a driveway. Mrs. Roche said, "If a truck came the other way he would have to back up." We pulled into the parking lot of The House of Seven Gables, the car doors began to swing open and Debbie DeMango asked, "Are we here?"

Judy Cabral answered, "No, we're not here, this is the wrong house." We arrived in time for the 3 p.m. showing at the museum.

While we were waiting in the lobby of the museum, chilled by the weather, Judy gave us a warning laugh when she relived parts of her trip to Austria. She accompanied Mr. Williams, two boys and 13 other girls to Austria. Judy sprained her ankle while skiing and she was taken to the hospital.

Mr. Williams, a chaperone, just kept pacing the floor, saying things like, "I'm never going to get married and have kids!" Judy asked for a glass of milk, but the only word anyone understood was "Pepsi Cola."

By this time, at the museum, it was 3:00. The people from the 2:30 showing were coming out of the museum, and sort of staring at us as they walked by. Someone asked, "Why are you looking at us that way?" Someone else answered, "They aren't looking at us, they're pitying us." We all laughed and went inside.

It was very dark in there. There was a lighted red circle in the center of the floor. Everyone was to stand around it, and a voice began to tell the story of the famous Salem witch trials. There were paper mache figures all around the room. At certain periods of time during the recording, a spot light would shine on the figure that related to that part of the recording.

The entire show lasted about 25 minutes. For the weekend of March 23, the Ski Club will take a trip to Mt. Tremblant, Canada. Participants will leave at the Capital Discount Store at 10:45 p.m. Friday night. The buses will depart at 11:15 p.m. and will return at 7:30 a.m. Sunday.

The cost for transportation and lift is $15.00 for members of the club, and $30.00 for non-members. The costs for food may be expensive, and aren't included in the above prices.

The Ski Club suggests that if you rent equipment, rent from a local ski shop, rather than one in Canada. The cost for rentals in Canada is between $5 and $8.

The club expects to be on the slopes between 8 and 9 a.m., and the slopes close at 4:30 p.m. The Ski Club executives will take of further arrangements. (Don't worry, a supper stop and others are in their plans!)

If you have information on teen events or teenagers in Tewksbury, contact Kathy Heider at 851-2652 or by mail at Box 68, Tewksbury.

VA NEWS

Veterans who have used their G.I. loan can have their eligibility restored and get another VA-guaranteed loan under some circumstances.

The basic qualification is that the first home was sold for compelling reasons, and in addition, VA must have been released from the original loan. This usually happens when a home is sold with new financing. It was explained.

Some of the reasons for which property may be disposed of and entitlement restored by VA are:

Transfer of employment from one locality to another by an employer.

Destruction of home by fire or natural hazard.

Voluntary change of employment to another locality offering more income and opportunity for advancement - provided satisfactory evidence is furnished.

Retirement of a veteran, or transfer of a serviceman by his military department while he is on active duty.

Limites space in a veteran or serviceman's home, if a doctor certifies that space is a health question. An increase in size of his family, however, is not in itself sufficient grounds for restoration of entitlement.

Loss of employment through a reduction-in-force, or curtailment of activities in occupation where he is employed - if suitable employment is obtained in another locality.

VA guaranteed home loans are available to eligible veterans and servicemen with at least 90 days of active duty during World War II, and the Korean Conflict, or at least 181 days in the Vietnam Era. Loan benefits also are available to eligible widows, and wives of servicemen missing in action or prisoners of war for more than 90 days.

Letter

Dear Mr. Neilson:

Recently, while home from college, I was privileged to see some of the students of Wilmington High School perform three plays. Unfortunately, not everyone had this same privilege or didn't avail themselves of it. I tend to agree with the latter part of the previous statement. Being at the plays both nights, I noticed a marked improvement in attendance on Saturday. There were almost 85 people in the audience that evening. I'll leave Friday's attendance total to your imagination. If you haven't guessed yet, this letter is about that poor attendance.

The plays were performed on March 2 and 3 in Barrows Auditorium. The two days were at the culmination of election campaigns. What is ironic is that while people believe they are voting to expand and enrich the education of the youth of Wilmington, they are overlooking the expansion of that education already in progress. There's a double standard. While people are for new learning horizons, they are, in fact turning their backs to what's already been accomplished saying, "expansion is fine and needed as long as I don't have to do anything." That philosophy may hold in some instances, but it can't in drama. The dramatic arts rely heavily on the audience reaction. The sighs, the laughter, the tears, all the emotions of the audience help the performer and encourage him in his portrayal.

I can honestly say that the attendance not only discouraged the performers of the Drama Club, but that attendance hurt them. It would be foolish of me to try and express that hurt because I don't think I've ever felt that kind of hurt. I can empathize with the performers because I think I know how hurt I would be to have done all that work and preparation and then be insulted by a meager attendance.

I don't know what else to say except that through the sparse attendance the Drama Club lost a substantial amount of money. No reparation could possibly diminish the hurt inflicted by the people who didn't attend. You non-attenders lose. For you may be depriving yourselves of one of the many joys of life, the joy of expression and communication.

This letter was not meant to insult the people of Wilmington, but to educate them. The education is entitled, "If you want things changed you may have to help or you'll hurt." If I have offended anyone I apologize to the people who attended the plays because their offense is well taken. For the offended that didn't attend I do not apologize because their offense is an offense to truth and reality. If anyone is offended by truth may his dream world never disappear because he may find he never really lived.

To the cast and Miss Chipman I commend you for your devotion and spirit. I compliment you for your talent. I thank you for still searching out new horizons for expression.

May God be with you all and keep you safe.

Eternally,
Wayne S. Sterfaza.

Dawn Julie Williams is Bride

The Wilmington Methodist Church was the setting for the marriage of Dawn Julie Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Donald Williams of 42 Hopkins St., Wilmington and Ronald A. Faverly, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Faverly of Valdez, Alaska. The Rev. Willis Miller officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride was lovely in a gown of embroidered organza over satin with empire bodice, illusion neckline and long, sheer sleeves. She wore a matching headpiece with elbow length veil and carried a bouquet of daisies and ivy.

Maid of honor was Kathy Shea. Bridesmaids were Heather Ratcliffe, cousin of the bride and Karen O'Brien. The attendants wore identically styled orange gowns and carried yellow daisies. Kenneth Williams, brother of the bride served as best man while ushering duties were in charge of Dan Williams, brother of the bride and Rick Ratcliffe, uncle of the bride.

Following a reception at the Branding Iron in Tewksbury, Mr. and Mrs. Faverly left on a wedding trip to Hawaii. They will reside in Valdez, Alaska.

The bride, a graduate of Boston College is employed by Harborview Memorial Hospital in Valdez. Mr. Faverly, who served with the Marines in Vietnam, is also employed by Harborview Memorial Hospital.

SCOUTMASTER WALLY DALTON: Of Troop 39, Wilmington is pulled up a half-snow and half-sand portion of the "Klondike" Trail during recent Klondike Derby held in Tyngsboro.

WILMINGTON/TEWKSBURY BOY SCOUTS GAIN HONORS AT KLONDIKE DERBY

Boy Scout Troop 136 of Wilmington received an award for gaining "the greatest number of points per boy" at the recent Wamesit District Klondike Derby held in Tyngsboro.

The Apache Patrol, Troop 322, Tewksbury took third place in the Klondike Trail Awards.

The Klondike Derby is by nature a winter camping and survival test. Each group of four boys was required to build a sled, limited in size and shape only by the imagination of the builders.

Each vehicle was packed for four boys, including cooking gear and a tent. Each group of four must push and pull their sled fully loaded up and down hill and across country; proceed to a central location, unload, set up camp, cook a meal, clean up, repack and proceed to a first aid station where they were given a problem on their arrival. One member of each group became the "victim" of an injury. The remaining three were required to treat the patient and transport him back to the finish line on the sled.

Following the Klondike trail, the sleds were unloaded of equipment and reloaded with the Scoutmaster, whereby a race ensued between two and three patrols at a time over a course that went up and down hill, across a frozen lake and through woods.

Eleven Troops from Wilmington, Tewksbury and Billerica participated in the event. Wilmington's entrants included boys from Troops 58, 59, 63 and 136. Entrants from Tewksbury included Troop 322 and Posts 47 and 147.

CASE CONTINUED FOR TEWKSBURY MAN

A Tewksbury man facing charges in connection with two incidents involving town police had his case continued until March 29 in Lowell District Court Friday. Leo J. Cullinan Jr., 22 of 17 Knollwood Rd., was charged in connection with incidents with police January 27 and February 21. His case was continued because his attorney was unable to attend the court session Friday.

ZIP IS DEAD

Zip, the police dog of Wilmington who is credited with many arrests, and the finding of many lost children during his 7½ years of duty, is dead. Zip died last Thursday, after a chronic illness of some duration.

Zip became a member of the Wilmington Police Department in 1965 and was first handled by Officer James Palmer. When Palmer became a sergeant in 1969, Officer Robert E. Shelley became the new handler.

In addition to his exploits in Wilmington Zip often did duty in other towns and cities nearby.

The Wilmington Police will soon be replacing Zip with a new K-9, to be handled by Officer Shelley.

HOCKEY HIGHLIGHTS

YOUTH HOCKEY NEWS

Bantam B's (12-7-3)...Coach Jerry McPhee's Bantams topped Winthrop last Wednesday night at the Arena to continue their fine play.

Mark Donnelly gave the B's an early 1-0 lead in the opening frame only to have Winthrop bounce back for a pair and a 2-1 lead at the end of the first period. Allan Wilson knotted the score for Wilmington with a goal at 6:00 of the middle frame when he picked up a loose puck aside the Winthrop net and skated by the front to beat the opposing goalie to the open side.

The game winner came off the stick of Wilson at 4:49 of the final period and then at 5:01 the B's iced the contest when Joe Steen scored with Ken Plummer assisting.

The defensive corps of Bob Woods, Ken Plummer, Bob Murphy and Scott Dindo turned in a very good performance to backhome the stout goal tending. The next encounter will take place tonight at the Arena with an 8:10 face-off scheduled against Reading.

Pee Wee A's (34-4-4)...Coach Rossi's icemen moved into second place one point behind front runner Reading with a 3-2 triumph over Peabody last Saturday in a WYIA league encounter at the Arena.

Second period goals by Bill Blaisdell and Mike Carlin put the A's ahead 2-1, after the visitors had jumped out to an early 1-0 first period lead. In the last stanza Peabody tied the game, but Carlin scored late in the frame to give the A's their 17th triumph in the Wilmington league.

Assists were garnered by Greg Moulton, Paul Sullivan, Tom

BILL McCANN: Lets a slap shot go from 30 feet out, as a Billerica defender prepares to block the puck in last weekend's Pee Wee B's encounter at the Arena. Watching the action is Wilmington's Bill Murphy.

Bavota and Ron Marasco. On Sunday morning the A's traveled to Melrose and came out on top as they whipped the Eagles, 4-1 as Jay Walden scored a pair of goals.

This Saturday afternoon at 4:30 the A's will skate against Reading (18-1-2) in the final game of the season for both clubs with the league title hanging in the balance.

Pee Wee B's (13-8-0)...Led by Steve Wingate's hat trick the B's edged Billerica, 5-4 last weekend at the Arena.

Billy McCann tallied the other goals while Ray Robson, Dana and David Kidd, Steve Connolly, Greg Howell and Mike picked up one or two assists.

Squirt A's (4-16-2)...Tied Burlington, 3-3 as David Kidd, Jimmy Burns and Donnie Foley scored once each and Bobby Greenberg picked up a pair of assists. Other helpers were garnered by Peter Davey and Donnie Foley.

Squirt B's (8-12-2)...Lost to Reading Blues, 4-1. Ben Scozaro scored Wilmington's only goal assisted by Doug Wiberg. This Sunday the Squirts begin their playoffs.

Mite A's (8-11-1)...The A's edged Chelmsford 2-1 Monday night behind the combined goal tending of Jeff Lux and Dana Tarricone. Chris Turner put the Mites ahead 1-0 at 3:56 of the opening frame on an unassisted tally.

Game puck were given to both goalies Lux and Tarricone, for the outstanding play in the nets. On the weekend of March 16, 17 and 18 the Mite A's will be the host club of the WYIA Mite Tournament.

The Wilmington club will be in action Monday night in their final league encounter and will see tournament action, on Saturday afternoon, March 17 against Nashua.

Garden scored in the opening frame for the Blazers to give the winners a lead they never relinquished.

Greg Corcoran made it 3-0 early in the middle stanza before John Gennetti beat Neal on a fine unassisted tally. Mark Peters finished off the scoring late in the stanza with Duggan assisting.

Wed. Feb. 28...The Crusaders snapped a four game losing streak while the Blazers were winning their fourth straight to hi-lite the evening's play.

In the lid lifter Jim Brewster's three goal "hat trick" and Gerry Galvin's pair proved to be the difference in the Crusaders 6-4 triumph over the Cougars.

After each club scored twice in the opening frame the winners tallied three times in the second stanza with Brewster's second goal proving to be the game winner, as it gave the Crusaders a 5-3 two period lead. Tom Mazzapica made it 5-4 with a score midway into the last frame, but Brewster put the Crusaders two goals up late in the game.

The Blazers moved into a tie for the top spot with a 5-2 triumph over the Generals as Jim Cushing scored three times. Dan O'Connell gave the Generals an early 1-0 lead in the opening frame, but Jack Garden and Cushing each tallied once before the period ended for a 2-1 Blazer lead.

Bob Britt tied the score in the opening minutes of the middle frame only to have Cushing's second goal of the game put the Blazers back on top to stay at 3-2. Mark Peters and Cushing put the frosting on the cake with single goals in the last period.

TOURNAMENT TOPICS

WILDCATS SUCCUMB TO DON BOSCO

A week ago the WHS varsity hockey sextet moved into second round competition of the EMass State Hockey Tourney against Catholic Central champion Don Bosco and came home empty handed.

In the third game ever played by a Wilmington club in the Arena, the Wildcats were awed by it all and lost 5-0 to the Technicians. Don Bosco scored twice in the opening stanza and three times in the riddle frame to provide the margin of victory.

The Wildcats were out shot 25-14, and had a very difficult time penetrating the Technicians zone. The only real scoring opportunities came off the stick of Dan Burns in the final stanza, but he was stopped on two occasions by the Don Bosco goalie.

In retrospect it was a tough way to end a surprising, but pleasant season for Coach Fessenden's club, which came farther than any other team in the school's history by advancing to the second round. The varsity completed the season with an overall 12-5-3 record.

Frank McLean came in second in the MVHL scoring race with 32 points, on 15 goals and 17 assists. John Harrison was sixth with 14 and 12 for 26 while Dana Mullarky was ninth with 19 points, which included 10 goals. Dean Devlin was third in the goal tenders ranking with a 2.44 goals against average.

REDMEN BOW IN SEMI-FINALS

The Tewksbury varsity basketball season came to an end last Saturday night as the Redmen were eliminated in the semi-finals of the EMass Division I North sector by powerful Lexington, 68-53.

The Redmen jumped out to an early 6-2 lead but Lexington bounced back to lead at the end of the first stanza. Midway into the second frame the Redmen moved in front, 25-24, but that was the final time Tewksbury was to lead as the Minutemen went on a 22-3 scoring advantage and a commanding 46-28 halftime lead.

Co-captain Jim Meuse took game high scoring honors tossing in 26 points for the Redmen while Bill Mackey chipped in with 14. Overall the Redmen made 22 of 59 from the floor and 9 of 14 free throws. Lexington was 27 for 54 in field goals and 14 of 23 free throws. Earlier in the week the Redmen knocked off Danvers, 71-55 in a quarter final match. A well balanced scoring attack was led by Meuse, who scored 23 points and grabbed nine rebounds. Joe Lewis tossed in 19, while Gary Jenkins chipped in with 12 and a game high 12 rebounds.

Coach Romano's club finished the season with an overall 19-4 slate.

MEDICAL IMPROVEMENT DEDUCTIBLE

Home improvements are generally not tax deductible, but they can be - if they're a medical necessity. For example: a swimming pool to provide treatment for a polio victim; a chair seat elevator for a heart patient; central air conditioning for a child afflicted with cystic fibrosis.

How much of the expense is deductible? The amount over which it increases the property value. For example, if an elevator costs $5,000 and the property value is increased by $1,000, the $4,000 excess is deductible. If there's no increase in property value, it's all deductible.

But you'll need two documents to support this claim. A letter from a doctor stating that it is a medical necessity and a written opinion from a competent real estate appraiser stating the amount (if any) the improvement adds to the value of your property.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at RICHARD D. SIMMONS, REALTORS, 26 Princess St., Wakefield. Phone: 245-7878. We're here to help!

Students build all kinds of things from junk at Tewksbury High School

by Bob Morris
Although students at many schools think they are learning a lot of junk in class, sophomores at Tewksbury Memorial High School are learning a lot from junk.

In "Project Development in Power Mechanics," a new course offered by power mechanics teacher, Norris O'Brien this year, 15 sophomores are utilizing junk to gain knowledge that will be useful to them for the rest of their lives. O'Brien thought up the course because, as he explains, "After having students for a year, I realized their concept of mechanics was simply knowing where to put the wrench. They didn't really understand the concepts behind mechanics, the planning."

"I believe students should know some of the engineering ideas behind mechanics. They should know the different ways of transferring power to engines, motors or even electric lights. This course was created to teach them this knowledge and teach them how to apply it."

O'Brien continued, "I try to run the course in a way as to stimulate individual motivation. The individual chooses his own project to fulfill his own needs or wants. The idea is to have him take the project from the thought stage successfully through completion and overcome problems, one by one."

O'Brien continued, "I try to run the course in such a way as to stimulate individual motivation. The individual chooses his own project to fulfill his own needs or wants. The idea is to have him take the project from the thought stage successfully through completion and overcome problems, one by one."

"I try to get them to think about what they learned in earlier classes and how to use that knowledge. When they find a problem that is insurmountable, of course, I try to help them with the situation."

O'Brien encourages students to rebuild worn-out motors and engines and use other cast-off items to keep expenses down for the projects. The school's only contribution toward projects is scrap material from other shop classes. Anyone hearing how students keep their expenses down might ask why the course isn't called scrounging I.

Student Fred Andella is building a dune cycle termed by O'Brien "the most involved of all the projects. Built entirely of raw materials, Andella's total financial investment in the project so far is one dollar. He rebuilt an old nine horsepower lawnmower engine for the cycle, and scrounged two old airplane wheels for the vehicle from the manager of TewMac Airport.

Danny Norton, has shown quite a bit of imagination in building his go-cart. The main support axle for the front end of the cart is made of scraps of angle iron from the school shop that he welded together. He took short lengths of scrap steel rod from other students' projects to make the steering linkage. The actual body of the go-cart is made of scraps of electrical tubing he got from an electrical contractor.

Dom Ramos is building a wind-powered electrical generator. The entire frame for the project is built of scrap wood from other classes. The generator itself is an old automobile component owned by the school, which will probably use Ramos' project as part of ecology and other science courses

Marsi & McKenna to receive Commendations

Officers James Marsi and Michael McKenna of the Wilmington Police are to receive commendations from the Board of Selectmen, voted a week ago at the suggestion of Selectman Danny Gillis.

The two policemen surprised three youths, two weeks ago, in an empty house on Main Street, and, as related in the Town Crier, Officer Marsi captured one of them after a mile long foot chase. The vote for the commendation was unanimous.

NEW SELECTMEN SHAKE HANDS: Tewksbury's newest selectmen, Neil Niven Jr., left and Richard Adams Sr., shook hands after they learned of their election victory Saturday night. The two selectmen ran a pooled campaign organization.

STUDENT PLANNING BOARD MEMBERS: Wilmington High School seniors and juniors will be seen, for the next few weeks, filling in on various capacities of the town. There will be student selectmen, student fire chiefs, student police chiefs, etc. It's all a part of the program of the League of Women Voters to promote civic responsibility among the younger set.

Above are five students, now junior planning board members, attending the Wilmington Planning Board, Tuesday night and talking with Planning Board Member Bill Hanley.

From the camera: Barry Gorden, Beth Higley, Debra Romanski, Mark O'Hearne and Stanley Fielding. All except the last are High School seniors.

making such a statement. He said he supported construction of a new school in the past, but since changed his mind.

James W. Lennox, newly elected to the health board, in questioning Trull on the additions, criticized the committee for planning a 2500-student high school. He said estimates showed there would be 2800 students in the town when the school entered. Lennox, normally quiet spoken, yelled, "Get the problem solved."

The school committee's budget was still to be considered by adjournment Tuesday night. The committee refused to follow most Fincom recommendations, and the budget will be considerably higher than that proposed by the finance committee.

Voters rejected increases in the pay of the police and fire chiefs that would give them twice the salaries of their highest paid patrolmen or firefighters. Selectman Frank A. Antonelli, who is also a state representative, said the pay increases were required by a state law now in effect.

The legislature, he said, was considering changing the law to allow communities to decide themselves whether to expect its provisions. The actual pay increases provided under the act haven't been paid anywhere, he said, because they violate the Nixon Administration's phase III pay guidelines.

Antonelli said if the town accepted an article to provide pay increases to the chiefs as provided by the law, the town could never rescind the action. The voters supported Antonelli's motions to reduce the pay increases to the chiefs to 1972 salaries plus a 5.5 per cent increase.

Instructor cards for Wilmington Civil Defense

Two members of the Wilmington Civil Defense Corps have received their Red Cross Instructor's cards which qualify them to teach the standard course.

Twelve members have completed a five week Red Cross standard first aid course. Members of the Corps have also received an evening of instruction in cardiopulmonary resuscitation given by the Heart Association.

The meeting placed enough funds in the tree department's budget to pay for a worker who previously was paid with federal funds under the Economic Emergency Act. The action came after several persons said the man was a good worker, and a woman announced that the man's wife just had triplets.

The increase in the town's share of insurance for town employees was voted down after an employee of Blue Cross/Blue Shield said the article to provide the increase was worded so as to include all school personnel too. The vote was 478-181 to kill the increase.

Voters refused to increase the tree warden's salary from $7400 to $10,500 after several persons said the job wasn't a full-time position. Others said the warden was on call 24 hours a day, seven days a week, and acted promptly when called for tree work.

Good Guy

In his estimation. He has a kind way of drawing a child out, and trying to reach his or her problem, together with helping the parents understand their children. He has earned an enviable reputation, in Wilmington.

Good Guy No. 3 was a female - Lillian Woodside, wife of the local druggist. "Lil", as she is better known, has been working for four years towards the establishment of a hospital for Wilmington and the Wilmington region. It is a challenge to Lil, and that is part of what makes it worth while. Meanwhile the lady works daily at the drugstore, where she is ever ready to lend a willing ear, or a shoulder to cry on.

Number Four was Ray McNamara, who is the owner of McNamara Tire Company. Father of five children, he has been greatly involved in Little League, Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts, and Parents Councils. His car or truck never leaves the driveway without its quota of children of all ages, and his home is always open to children with problems, as well as board and room for young men trying to further their education.

Good Guy Number Five will be known next Monday night, in the Knights of Columbus Hall. Its a dinner - dance that starts at 7:30 pm, and the tickets are $7.50. They may be purchased from any of the four preceding Good Guys, and it seems that the affair is to be a sellout.

How to refinish a floor with an old oil finish?

This can be one of the most difficult of renovation problems. This is because oil finished have a tendency to become imbedded in the wood.

Often a steel wool buffer with number three steel wool will do the best job of removing the finish. If not, try an alkali solution of washing soda or a commercial cleanser.

Remember that strong solutions of lye will swell and soften the wood. Be sure to rinse carefully.

ANTONELLI CHOSEN CHAIRMAN OF TEWKSBURY SELECTMEN

The newly organized Tewksbury selectmen Tuesday night unanimously chose Frank A. Antonelli as chairman for the coming year. The board's choice of Antonelli seemed to indicate a new phase in voting on the board.

Neil Niven Jr., a new selectman, nominated Antonelli for the post, and Richard Adams Sr., another new selectman, seconded the motion. There were no other nominees. Antonelli thanked the selectmen for the vote. He commented, "The last time it wasn't a unanimous vote, so I really appreciate this."

Niven was unanimously chosen vice chairman. Adams nominated Niven, and Antonelli seconded the motion. There were no other nominees. Adams was unanimously chosen clerk for the board. Antonelli nominated Adams, and Niven seconded the nomination. There were no other nominees.

The vote appeared to indicate Antonelli, Niven and Adams have similar views on many town affairs. Antonelli supported Niven and Adams in their campaigns. Whelan, who, in the past often lined up with Selectmen Donald E. Sheehan and former Selectman Charles H. Goldstein against Antonelli and other selectmen, joked, "From now on we are going to have all unanimous votes."

The selectmen agreed to ask for only $5000 at town meeting for the municipal building committee to study renovations to the town hall. Earlier they planned to ask for $20,000.

Several selectmen indicated support for moving most town offices to a proposed municipal building to be built either on the site of the present water department headquarters or the Foster School.

Whelan and Antonelli agree expensive renovation of the town hall "is probably money down the drain," in Whelan's words.

Donald Kolesar, of the municipal building committee, also advised against extensive renovation of the town hall. "I can't see any kind of way you can get what you need in that building," he said.

Antonelli said he asked the state Department of Welfare to relocate the town's welfare office to the state hospital. He said if welfare officials went along with the request, the present welfare office could be used to alleviate cramped conditions elsewhere.

The board voted unanimously to inform all town departments that the town seal could only be used on stationary used for official town business. The vote came after Mrs. Norma Heider, a prominent member of the Tewksbury Taxpayers Ass., produced evidence Auditor Thomas J. Berube used the town seal on campaign literature he sent to voters prior to Saturday's election.

LOWELL STREET FROM A HELICOPTER: Bruce Campbell, (right) Commissioner of the Massachusetts DPW and Rep. Fred Cain flew the length of Lowell Street, in a helicopter, last Friday, so that the Commissioner could have first hand knowledge of the problems of the proposed Route 129 Bypass. They also inspected the site of the proposed bridge over the B&M, near Rocco's, and the burgeoning industrial area in North Woburn.
